Once you have watched the video, create a biography summarising Alan's life. What was he good at? What challenges did he face? What was he known for? What contributions did he make in the area of computer science?

What is a biography?

A biography describes someone's life, but from the perspective of someone else.

You may use other sources that you find online also. Once you have completed your biography of Alan Turing, alter the design to make it looked aged. You may do this either by hand, or using a computer, but make it look as though it is from Alan Turing's era.
